

APPENDIX 3

Activity Completion Report¹

ACTIVITY FACTS
Name of Platform	Environment and climate
African Partner Institution	Sokoine University of Agriculture, Tanzania
Activity name	PhD course: Multivariate analysis of environmental data
Main responsible resource person(s) for activity from Danish university and African partner institution ²	Dr. Anne Mette Lykke Dr. Anders Barfod Prof. Philibert Ndunguru
Start and end of implementation (dd/mm/yy)	8/1/2013-13/1/2013
BUDGET DETAILS
Original Budget (DKK)	114,370 from BSUEC & 58000 from AU
Actual expenses (DKK) ³
ACTIVITY DESCRIPTION
Brief description of planned activity	Purpose	To train the PhD students and academic members of staff in using various computer-based tools for analysis of multivariate environmental data with focus on classification and ordination.
	Content	Multivariate analytical methods are useful for gaining insight in the data structures of complex datasets as well as the underlying ecological processes that control these. These powerful computer tools enable the user to present the main dimensions in a data set in an easy comprehensible way. In each session new methods are introduced in a lecture immediately followed by a computer exercise that gives the participants a chance to analyse various environmental data sets including their own data. The computer analyses are carried out in groups of 2-3 and based either on own data or data provided by the teacher. The assumptions and pitfalls of the methods taught are discussed.
	Contribution to research capacity building	Building capacity of 32 participants (26 PhD students and 6 academic staff) to undertake research and scientific papers using multivariate datasets (classification and ordination)

	Indicators	After the course, participants are expected to be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • structure multivariate data and to identify relevant research questions that can be addressed using multivariate analytical methods • understand the assumptions underlying multivariate analysis and avoid the most common pitfalls • be confident with and critically judge the results of multivariate analysis
	Other relevant details/comments	Gender aspects: 8 female participants out of 32
Number of participants	Target	24
	Result	32
Describe/explain deviations from planned activity (timing, number of participants, content of activity, etc.)		More than 60 students and staff applied for the course, which was planned for 24 participants, following the number of participants was extended to 32. No deviations in timing and content of activity.
Main lessons learned (list 3-5 issues)		Lectures and computer exercises on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Classification - Ordination - Miscellaneous multivariate methods. Support and advice on analysis of own data.
Suggestions for follow up activities		A second course to give the possibility to participate for the 30 participants not admitted to the first course. A potential second course should involve a PhD student from the

	first course that can act as teaching assistant. More time for individual supervision of PhD students. Time for second course should be extended to at least two weeks. The first week could be done by the local facilitator and the second week with Danish facilitators. Need to intensify field work (do data collection from few vegetation plots)

² All responsible parties must sign Activity Completion Report before submission.

³ If actual expenses (per budget line) deviate from original budget, this must be thoroughly explained and approval from Platform Secretariat attached to the Activity Completion Report.

⁴ For budget expenses, see Inception Report (Annexes).

⁵ (Scanned) copy of all written output converted to a single pdf (e.g. Power Point presentations, course materials, list of reading materials, course curriculum, etc.)

⁶ Minimum e-mail address and phone number for all signatories.
